Necessity is the Mother of Invention

“À la guerre comme à la guerre”.

There are situations when we can not be prepared, but whereby we have to act in the best way.

Improvising is not something that everyone can do, but it's what everyone does every day, minute by minute, as nobody follows a pre-established script.

And what if this script was not there, this time? What if there is someone able to train us with the improvisation and the management of the unforeseen?

Price:
